Compulsory course material:

Casu, Girardone, Molyneux: Introduction to Banking, Pearson Publishing

Recommended additional study material:

Arnold: Financial Times Guides, Banking, Pearson Publishing

Evaluation: no exam in the examination period, end-of-semester grades based on seminar work and a theoretical test!

The work of the students is taken into account with the following weighting:

1. Theoretical tests (lectures and book) 40%
 - a) based on lectures 20% March 28th
 - b) based on the selected chapters of the book: 20% last week of Q7

2. seminar work 60%, which consists of the following parts:
 - a) 1st presentation 20%
 - b) 2nd presentation 20%
 - c) class activity, case studies 20%

In order to obtain a grade with that students can complete a subject (2 or better), they are required to gain at least 50 % of the 1st (theoretical test) and 2nd (seminar work) parts. This means that students have to have at least 20 points in the theoretical test and at least 30 points in the seminar works, however, not a single presentation can be missed.

The theoretical test is based on the material of the lectures and the compulsory course material (book).

The presentations must be made in groups of 2-3 people.

14 topics are to be discussed through presentations. Each group has two presentations during the semester.

The ppt-file must be uploaded to Teams no later than 24 hours before the time of the presentation, and the members of the other groups must prepare 1-1 questions for the class, which can be discussion starter in the given topic.

Attending the seminars is mandatory, student can miss a total of 3 times during the 7 weeks. In case one's absence exceeds this, the student receives 0 points for class activity.

End-of-semester grades based on all the points achieved by the students:

total points	grade
0 - 50	1
51 - 62	2
63 - 74	3
75 - 86	4
87 -	5
